JL- Here is a draft of a letter to the members of the Senate spook investigating committee. Take any liberties with it you want. Don't send a book to nothing. He has it. Just write a note to this effect on ~~the~~ that letter.

When we discussed this, we thought it would be best to xerox the ribbon copy and use the xeroxes as letters. Sign my name.

Please keep a record of the postage, the number of books and the xeroxing cost and give it to "il so you can be credited with it.

Sorry I couldn't get to this sooner.

Unless you feel otherwise I'm inclined not to send a copy to each member of the House committee. Why don't you go over the list and pick out those you think might have some chance of being interested when you have the list.
